Shake-up In State Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of Chester Bowles as a top official of the administration was clouded by doubt and uncertainty today after his removal by President Kennedy as undersecretary of state.

Hours after the announcement of a 10-man White House-State Department shakeup in the foreign policy high command, presidential associates and Bowles himself were silent on what job he would take over. The announcement said merely that he would move into a high policy-making position.

In its over-all effect, the reorganization was a tidying up operation, in most cases fitting men into positions involving the kind of work they were already doing.

One major result probably will be to strengthen foreign policy control in the hands of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and to lessen somewhat the amount of intervention in State Department operations by members of the White House staff. Officials considered it significant that two moves involved the transfer of Walt W. Rostow and Richard N. Goodwin from White House posts into jobs involving operational responsibilities in the State Department.

There were reports that Walter P. McCaughy, outgoing assistant secretary of state, would become ambassador to the Philippines.

The White House said an announcement clarifying Bowles' position would be made late this afternoon.

Asked if the shuffle of posts is now under way, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said "quite a few desks are being changed."

No one is being dropped.

Bowles, former governor of Connecticut and ambassador to India and a Kennedy adviser during last year's presidential race, has been a controversial figure in the administration since its first weeks in office. The President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were reported to consider him misplaced in the department's No. 2 position as undersecretary.

The shakeup announcement, made Sunday night from the Kennedy headquarters at Hyannis Port, Mass., said that Bowles is to get a high policy-making position on relinquishing his present duties.

Face Federal Charge For Derailing Train

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two 15-year-old boys face federal charges following the derailment of a freight train in which $200,000 damage was reported.

The FBI said the youths were held under $3,000 bond each on charges of wrecking a train.

FBI agent Thomas J. Jenkins said the boys threw a switch which resulted in the derailment of five diesel engines and 11 freight cars of an Atlantic Coast line train Sunday in a Birmingham suburb.

A Bloody Weekend In Algeria

Violence Takes Lives of 16; 87 Are Injured

ALGIERS (AP) — Lynching, shooting and grenade throwing by anti-De Gaulle Europeans and Algerians in revenge clashes killed 16 persons and injured 87 in one of the bloodiest weekends of the seven-year Algerian war.

French troops and police were caught in the middle as terrorism swept Algiers and the big western port city of Oran.

Waving clubs, a screaming mob of Europeans broke into a jail in Algiers, lynched one Algerian woman and savagely beat another before police reinforcements drove them off. The women had been arrested after a grenade wounded three Europeans in a sidewalk case.

In Oran, 220 miles to the west, bands of European youths roamed the streets, attacking any Moslems they encountered in revenge for the killing of Jean Rivas, 22, who was shot in the neck as he walked along a street. Three Algerians were reported killed and six injured in these attacks. Nearly 60 plastic bombs, favorite weapon of right-wing European extremists, exploded in Algiers during the weekend.

Curfews were put into effect in Algiers and Oran in an attempt to curb night attacks.

Clandestine broadcasts by the right-wing Secret Army Organization, led by fugitive French military officers opposed to President Charles de Gaulle's self-determination policy for Algeria, stirred up the mobs.

A voice claiming to be that of former Gen. Edmond Jouhaud broke into an Oran TV broadcast Sunday with a denunciation of De Gaulle's policy.

Corder Man Killed In Hunting Mishap

LEE'S SUMMIT, Mo. (AP) — Max Alvin Ruark, 26, of Corder, Mo., was accidentally shot and killed Sunday while hunting north of Higginsville.

The highway patrol said it understood the gun of Ruark's brother-in-law, William Robert Summers, 17, of Higginsville fired accidentally.

BOX OF SKELETAL REMAINS FROM SAIPAN—Fred Goerner, CBS newsmen, looks at sealed box containing skeletal remains found in a shallow grave on Saipan. The box arrived at San Francisco's International Airport Saturday. Some believe the remains may be those of famed aviator Amelia Earhart and her navigator Fred Noonan who disappeared in the Pacific in 1937 while on a globe-circling flight. Goerner said Dr. Theodore D. McCown, professor of anthropology of the University of California in Berkeley has agreed to study them.

'Copters Into Search

Smoke Gives Hope To Rockefeller

MERAUKE, Dutch New Guinea (AP) — Hope for Michael Rockefeller faded again today as wisps of smoke waiting up from the steamy Asmat jungle off which he disappeared eight days ago were identified as burning brush.

The smoke was spotted Sunday by an Australian air force plane, raising hopes at the search headquarters. Dutch officials said an investigation proved to be "a wild goose chase."

Helicopters criss-crossing the jungle wilderness of southwest New Guinea were scheduled to end their search Tuesday night. Michael's father, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and his sister, Mary Strawbridge, were expected to leave for the United States soon after.

The governor flew over the wild country in what appeared to be his last personal effort to find his missing son. He told newsmen: "I saw nothing that would increase or decrease my hopes."

Ground parties will continue to comb the crocodile-infested jungle coast for at least two more weeks.

"We still have one hope," a Dutch district official said. "It's possible Michael might be sick or injured and given aid and shelter by the natives."

"In this eventuality it's also possible that the natives would not tell authorities about his whereabouts until after he recuperated. They might be afraid they would be blamed for his illness."

An Antitrust Suit Filed Against Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department filed a civil antitrust suit today against the Ford Motor Co. over its acquisition of Electric Autolite Co.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

A department spokesman said the suit asks the court to order Ford divest itself of two manufacturing plants, sales facilities and the "Autolite" trade name it acquired last spring from the Electric Autolite Co. of Toledo, Ohio.

The government charged that Ford's acquisition could substantially decrease competition in the spark plug business and in other automobile parts.

Ford purchased the "Autolite" trade name; the company's spark plug plant at Fostoria, Ohio; its battery plant at Owosso, Mich., and most of its sales organization last April 12.

An April 4 letter to Electric Autolite stockholders, the government said, reported the firm received about $28 million in the deal.

Electric Autolite had been one of the nation's biggest independent suppliers of automobile parts. Autolite, the Champion Spark Plug Co., and General Motors produced more than 90 per cent of all spark plugs turned out in this country last year, the government said.

Besides spark plugs, Electric Autolite also had produced batteries, generators, electrical motors, instruments, and ignition systems in a full line of automotive electrical products using the name "Autolite," the government added.

Died Sunday At Age 63

Services Are Set For Sen. Bridges

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A funeral service at the New Hampshire state house at noon Wednesday is planned for Sen. Styles Bridges, 63, senior Republican member of the Senate, who died Sunday.

Bridges' death was not likely to change the present partisan lineup in the Senate but a liberal-conservative struggle to choose a successor in the Senate Republican leadership appeared possible when Congress reconvenes in January.

President Kennedy led the tributes to the senator, chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee and second ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee.

President Kennedy telephoned Bridges' widow to extend condolences and later issued a statement describing Bridges as "a great patriot who devoted his life to the continuing strength of our country."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower at Augusta, Ga., said that in close association with Bridges "I came to learn how deeply he was dedicated to the good of our nation."

Among other tributes, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said at Los Angeles that Bridges was "one of the most effective political leaders ever produced by the Republican party."

Many political observers in traditionally Republican New Hampshire believed Republican Gov. Wesley Powell, a graduate of Bridges' staff, would be appointed to succeed him, although some other reports mentioned Bridges' widow.

The appointee will hold the seat only until the 1962 election, when the voters will choose a senator to complete the balance of Bridges' term, which expires in 1966.

Powell can not appoint himself. He would have to resign as governor and be appointed by his successor, the president of the state Senate, Samuel Green, a Manchester Republican.

Bridges' body will lie in state in the state house Hall of Flags from 2 p.m. to 11 p.m. Tuesday and from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. Wednesday.

A private funeral service for the immediate family only will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the East Concord Congregational church.

Thanksgiving Holiday Toll Is Average

Compares With Last Three Years Of Holiday Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic	449
Fires	40
Miscellaneous	102
Total	591

Traffic deaths across the nation during the long weekend held close to the usual toll for a Thanksgiving holiday period.

Fatalities during the 102-hour period that ended at midnight numbered 449. That compared with 442 in 1960, 445 in 1959 and 454 in 1958.

During the period that began at 6 p.m.—local time—Wednesday 40 died in fires and 102 in accidents of other kinds for an over-all total of 591.

The National Safety Council did not estimate a traffic death toll for the Thanksgiving holiday period. However, it said deaths on the highway for a non-holiday weekend at this time of year would total 450.

An Associated Press survey for the 102-hour period from 6 p.m. Wednesday Nov. 8 to midnight Sunday Nov. 12 showed 462 traffic fatalities, 37 killed in fires and 106 deaths in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all total of 605.

Reds Switch To Jailing Spy Tourists

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians now are imprisoning tourists convicted of spying. They used to expel them.

Since September, one American, two Dutchman and two Germans have been packed off to Soviet prisons.

The Germans and the Dutchmen got longer sentences than Francis Gary Powers, the American U2 pilot who was given 10 years for flying over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960. Powers, now in prison at Vladimir, 100 miles east of Moscow, must do three years in prison and the rest of the time in a labor camp.

The same type of military court last month handed out 13-year sentences for espionage to two Dutch tourists, Lou de Jager, 25, and Evert Reydon, 29.

Last week two Germans, Peter Sonntag, 22, and Walter Naumann, 27, drew 12-year sentences on charges of spying for the United States.

The same charges face Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Werner, two West German tourists who go on trial Tuesday.

The first tourist to feel the wrath of a military court was Marvin William Makinen, a student from Chassel, Mich. He drew an eight-year sentence on Sept. 9. Previously various tourists and students had been expelled from the Soviet Union, mainly for photographing or looking at things the Russians classify as secret.

Many things listed as espionage in the Soviet Union are not considered even slightly criminal in other countries. It is illegal to photograph any bridge, high tension power line, airport, railroad yard or the like.

Charge Woman In a Stabbing On East Main

A charge of common assault was filed in Police Court today against Mrs. Dorothy Harris, 119 North Broadway, in connection with the stabbing of John Pearson, 209 East St. Louis, on East Main Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Harris was placed in the city jail Saturday afternoon, then released pending the results of an investigation under way. Police Chief Ralph Hamlin, Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz were involved in the investigation. Mrs. Harris was taken into custody Saturday by Sgt. Perry Franklin.

After the investigation proceeded to the point that an arrest was considered necessary, and after statements had been taken from Pearson, Mrs. Harris and several witnesses to the stabbing, the city warrant was sworn out.

Pearson remains in Bothwell Hospital, where he is recovering from the stab wounds.

The stabbing apparently resulted in a disagreement over the possession of some car keys.

Adenauer Is Better

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is better today but he remains confined to his home with the gripe, his office announced.

Seem to Call for New Uncontrolled Moratorium

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed today that the United States, Britain and France agree with it now to ban all nuclear tests. First Western reaction was skeptical since the Soviet proposal seemed to call for an uncontrolled moratorium.

The proposal was made on the eve of the resumption of nuclear test ban talks in Geneva by the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States. France, the fourth nuclear power, is not a participant but a Soviet statement said the time has come to invite the French.

The Soviet Union released a proposed four-article draft agreement and in an accompanying statement hinted they may resume tests if France does.

Under the Soviet proposal the four powers would agree to halt tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space. The argument was that each power now has the means of detecting such tests and cheating would be impossible.

The four powers also would undertake not to hold nuclear weapons tests underground while negotiating an agreement on a control system that could detect such blasts.

The proposal was delivered to the press but the embassies immediately involved — the British, American and French — were not called in. Neutral nations, however, were invited to send representatives to the Foreign Office.

The first Western reaction in Moscow was that it was aimed to end atmospheric tests now that the Soviets had completed theirs and would tie up underground tests for an indefinite period until an agreement could be reached on means of detecting them.

That amounted to giving the Soviet Union a virtual veto over the kind of tests the United States is now carrying out. The United States says it will continue underground tests regardless of the resumption of negotiations at Geneva.

The United States and Britain declared in advance of the resumption of talks at Geneva that they will not again agree to a moratorium on tests until a treaty is signed.

The Geneva treaty talks collapsed in September when the Soviet Union abruptly ended a voluntary moratorium by launching a series of atmospheric tests.

Talks May Result In Negotiation

Macmillan Holds Weekend Meeting With De Gaulle

LONDON (AP) — The weekend talks between President Charles de Gaulle and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan apparently eased—but did not eliminate—the French leader's opposition to Western negotiations on Berlin with the Soviet Union.

No communique was issued, but this was the impression that filtered from the prime minister's closely guarded country estate where the two leaders met. De Gaulle as usual had nothing to say to newsmen when he returned to Paris.

John Russell, the British Foreign Office spokesman, said the talks were "most friendly, pleasant and intimate" but "the pattern is, in any case, not complete—there are still some further moves out in the rounds of the Western leaders."

It was learned that Macmillan and De Gaulle regarded the talks as useful and that there had been a thorough exploration of the Berlin problem and of Britain's application to join the European Common Market.

De Gaulle was expected to reserve his final decision on East-West negotiations until he discusses with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer the German government's attitude toward a new Western approach to the Soviets.

Adenauer, if he is sufficiently recovered from the gripe, will meet with De Gaulle in Paris Thursday.

Adenauer as well as De Gaulle has been reluctant to approve negotiations on Berlin, but the chancellor's talks with President Kennedy in Washington are believed to have shown that West Germany's policy generally is in line with that of the United States and Britain.

Terry Jo Is Taken Home By Relative

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eleven-year-old Terry Jo Duperrault, sole survivor of the sunken ketch Bluebelle, has left the hospital and returned to her native Green Bay, Wis.

Mercy Hospital said Terry was released at 5:30 p.m. Sunday and left by plane soon afterward. She was accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Ralph Scheer, with whom she will live.

Terry Jo was orphaned by a Nov. 12 sea tragedy near the Bahamas.

Meanwhile, a friend of Julian Harvey, skipper of the Bluebelle, said Harvey told him that the sight of blood on deck had caused him to panic and jump overboard before committing suicide.

James C. Booser said Sunday that Harvey pledged him to secrecy, then related that a mast snapped, knocking overboard Harvey's wife, Mary, 34, and Dr. Arthur Duperrault, 49, Green Bay, Wis., optometrist who chartered the 60-foot sailing ketch.

"I lost my nerve when I saw the blood and guts on the deck, and I jumped overboard," Booser quoted Harvey as saying. Two days later—and less than 24 hours after the little girl survivor of the Bluebelle was rescued—Harvey killed himself.

Booser said that after consulting with his pastor, he went to the Coast Guard with the story Harvey told him.

It did not jibe with statements the Coast Guard got separately from Harvey and Terry Jo.

Harvey told the Coast Guard a squall drenched the Bluebelle, knocking holes in her hull, and a fire broke out. He said all the passengers jumped overboard to escape the flames and he escaped in a dinghy.

Terry Jo said the masts "leaned" but did not fall; she saw no fire and smelled no smoke, and Harvey left her alone in darkness on the ketch after telling her the Bluebelle was sinking.

She said she saw her mother, Jean, 38, and brother, Brian, 14, lying motionless on a bloody deck when she came topside after hearing Brian screaming and a lot of stamping. She launched a raft and was picked up more than 80 hours later.

Six Lose Lives In Car Mishaps During Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were six traffic fatalities in Missouri during the long Thanksgiving weekend.

Three of the deaths, all children, occurred Sunday.

Two babies were killed when the car in which they were riding left a state road near Irondale and plunged into a creek. The children drowned. They were Carol Sue Warren, 22 months, and Ronald Lee Warren, 3 months, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald R. Warren of St. Louis, who are deaf mutes.

The parents were hospitalized at Bonne Terre. Warren suffered cuts on the right hand and Mrs. Warren a broken shoulder.

A 6-year-old St. Louis girl was fatally injured Sunday when she was struck by a car near her home. She was Theresa Ann Alfred, daughter of Mrs. Virgil Woolley.

Theresa darted between two parked cars into the path of an auto driven by Miss Mary Ann Agee, 17, of St. Louis. Miss Agee was not held.

United Nations Troops Control Mutinous Kindu

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo

—The United Nations today announced its Ethiopian troops have taken control of the mutinous town of Kindu, where Congolese troops slaughtered 13 Italian U.N. airmen.

No details of the takeover were announced except that the European population—estimated at 81—is well and safe.

Since the massacre two weeks ago, U.N. forces had been confined to the airport, with only occasional reconnaissance forays into the town controlled by the Congolese troops.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — State Sen. Theodore D. McNeal, a Democrat

—and first Negro ever elected to the Missouri Senate — will seek election next year to a four-year term in the city's new 4th Senatorial District. This may cause a legal snarl.

Because of a population loss, the city's 7th District, which McNeal now represents, is being transferred to St. Louis County.

The number of Senators in the city has been reduced from seven to six and the number in the county hiked from three to five under a redistricting plan.

McNeal said Saturday if nominated and elected in the 4th District next November, he will remain a 7th District Senator until Jan. 1, 1963, the day before the next regular session of the legislature convenes.

Then, McNeal said, he would resign from the 7th and represent only the 4th District.

The legal snarl might result over how to fill McNeal's unexpired 7th District term, which runs until 1965.

Atty. General Thomas F. Eagleton said it would be "a close legal question" as to whether the special election should be held in the old 7th (city) District or the new 7th (county) District.

The new district will be strongly Republican.

Eagleton said he didn't want to express an opinion on the matter now because authorities would undoubtedly ask him for a formal ruling later.

Another Farm Problem

Rising medical costs affect us all, but they strike with particular force on the country's farmers, who tend to be much less well protected by health insurance than others.

Yet, for a number of reasons, the farmers' health protection outlook is improving.

The rural farm family starts with the basic handicap of having less money to spend for medical care. Farm income per person averages only about 45 per cent of nonfarm income.

A government study of 3,000 farm families showed they spent nearly 10 per cent of their disposable income in 1955 for medical purposes, while in the same year the general population committed just 5 per cent of its income to that use.

Plainly, farmers need cost-spreading health insurance more than most. But less than half have hospitalization coverage and just 40 per cent are covered against the risk of surgery. In urban areas, from two-thirds to nearly three-fourths of the people have insurance safeguards.

One big problem is that, since farm operators are largely self-employed, there can be no employer contribution to help defray insurance costs as in company group plans.

Added to this is the fact that farm workers can be more expensive to insure. Benefits must cover on-the-job mishaps which for factory workers are covered by workmen's compensation systems.

Too, many farm families have not quickly appreciated the changes that have made medical care so costly and complex.

But federal health specialists see the problems easing.

More and more low income farmers beef up earnings with part-time jobs off the farm. More farm wives are taking outside work. Often company group plans give them needed coverage.

Group protection also is reaching out through community organizations, churches, farmer cooperatives.

At the same time, medical clinics once confined mainly to the cities are springing up in towns closer at hand. Some 500 of these now exist in rural or semirural areas—almost half the nation's total of 1,100 clinics. The savings in travel costs are clear.

And, in a negative way, the pressure is further diminished through the steady decline of the farm population, a trend expected to continue for many years.

All this is encouraging. Nevertheless, the farmers' relative position remains weak and their insurance protection insufficient. Spiraling medical costs threaten to cut the value of benefits.

No health plan can sensibly ignore the little-discussed but very real risk the farmer faces in this field.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Hearing on 'Sixth Column' Postponed

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It was with something of a sigh of relief that both the champions of the military "Sixth Column" and its opponents postponed the Senate hearing scheduled for today (Monday) into the alleged muzzling of the brass hats.

The opponents of the Sixth Column were glad to postpone because this kind of investigation exposes a gnawing cancer in the United States similar to that of France and is very dirty business. The champions of the Sixth Column, led by Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, were glad to postpone because Thurmond has been uneasy for some time about putting his would-be man on horseback, Gen. Edwin Walker, on the witness stand.

Thurmond has been maneuvering to let General Walker get by with a written statement and has inspired reports with friendly newspaper columnists that the hearings won't amount to much because too many other Senators are opposed to him.

The fact is, however, that the engaging of American military in politics is one of the most dangerous developments in American history and regardless of the Senate postponement, this writer will dig into it.

It was no less than President Eisenhower, himself a career military man, who in his last message to the American people January 17, warned of this danger. He pointed out that for the first time in history there was a huge complex of military orders to American industry and that an alliance between American industry and the American military was one of the most onerous problems this country faced.

Wise Warning
Already, the sponsoring of the California preventive-war crowd in whipping up hate meetings in the Los Angeles sports arena and the Hollywood Bowl has demonstrated the wisdom of Eisenhower's warning. Thousands of dollars of commercial TV time was purchased by such firms as Richfield Oil, Ever-sharp and Technicolor to whip up crowds for these frenzied meetings and to buy TV networks to show them to the public.

The snafu general who bore out General Eisenhower's prediction, Gen. Edwin Walker, is the officer who commanded the paratroopers who forced integration at Little Rock but who has now been made a martyr in the eyes of some of the most vigorous opponents of integration — led by Senator Thurmond of South Carolina.

The public generally is confused about General Walker. They believe he was muzzled and transferred because he was teaching his troops to fight Communism.

Actually he was indoctrinating his troops against democracy, or as he called it "Mobocracy." He was preaching against his former commander-in-chief, Harry Truman, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Mrs. Roosevelt, and Edward R. Murrow, who as head of the U.S. Information Service has been doing his best to penetrate Russian jamming of our broadcasts trying to tell the Russian people the truth about the U.S.A.

If a civilian employee of Uncle Sam had engaged in politics in this manner, he would have been prosecuted under the Hatch Act. Yet General Walker, for some strange reason, has not been prosecuted.

And when the Inspector General of the Army investigated him, he ducked, vacillated, and invoked article 31, which is the military equivalent of the Fifth Amendment.

Smear Liberalism
The Inspector General had discovered that General Walker had been a secret member of the John Birch Society since May 1959, that he had circulated subversive John Birch literature among his troops, that he had brought in John Birch leaders to lecture his troops, and that he had tried to influence the votes of his men which is in violation of the Hatch Act.

The literature and lectures which Walker imported didn't attack the Communists, but denounced fellow Americans whose views they didn't like. They used Communism as an excuse to smear liberalism.

Walker began dodging questions even before he was quizzed by the Inspector General. This is what his friends refer to as being muzzled.

When Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester got Walker on the trans-Atlantic telephone, he asked:

"Did you refer to Mr. Truman, Mr. Acheson and Mrs. Roosevelt as pink?"

"I did not," the General replied.

"Did you describe them in other similar terms?"

"What do you mean by other similar terms?" Walker parried.

Assistant Secretary Sylvester never got a straight answer to his question. When he asked whether Walker ever called Edward R. Murrow a "pink," the General replied: "Not after Jan. 20, 1961. I may or may not have before that. I can't remember."

Had he ever called Mrs. Roosevelt a "pink?"

"Yes," confessed Walker, "But prior to January, 1961."

Eventually and after considerable cross-examination he also acknowledged that he had referred to CBS commentator Walter Cronkite and Eric Sevareid, along with Murrow as "Left-Wing controlled."

The Inspector General in his official report, flatly declared: "The evidence establishes . . . that General Walker did make public remarks which were inflammatory and derogatory toward public figures and past officials."

More details on General Walker, the darling of the Sixth Column, and his operations inside the Army will follow soon.

Fund for Red Studies

We need to study communism, in the opinion of Henry Salvatori, chairman of the board of directors of the Western Geophysical Company, and he has just given three hundred twenty-five thousand to the University of Southern California for that purpose.

In making this gift, Mr. Salvatori said: "I have long been concerned with the free world's chronic ignorance or misjudgment of communist objectives, strategy and propaganda. America needs to know more about the techniques, themes and tactics employed by the Communists in their offenses against the free world. Of special interest are the neglected problem areas in Africa and Latin America."

The donor gifts will be for research. It is expected that the findings will be of great value to the government, educational, business and religious leaders and that they will spread them to the public at large.

The average American would like to know what he can do to stop the spread of communism. A knowledge of the philosophy of the five, ten or twenty year plans would be enlightening, but so far the most that the average American knows about Communism is that it is an evil force in the world, and to combat it we must raise the standard of living in underdeveloped countries before communism gets a foothold and watch ourselves so that we are not taken in by its propaganda.

Any enlightenment and help we can get through the research made possible by the Salvatori gift will be welcome.

Bowles' Post Uncertain for Some Time

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever since last summer Chester Bowles, No. 2 in the State Department, has looked like a man who had been put on probation but was going to lose his job anyway.

President Kennedy seemed unable to make up his mind about his undersecretary of state. It was hardly a good or happy situation for a State Department man who had to deal with foreign governments. Bowles seemed to want to cling to the job.

Now Kennedy has bounced him from the undersecretary's job, offered him another.

Sunday, in the first big shakeup of his administration Kennedy shifted around a group of White House and State Department officials, including Bowles.

All the changes were specific except the one affecting Bowles who had been an adviser to Kennedy in the 1960 presidential campaign, head of the Office of Price Administration during the war, an ambassador to India, and governor of Connecticut.

In Bowles' case Kennedy was just as vague as he had been before. The announcement made from Kennedy's headquarters at Hyannis Port said simply that Bowles would get a "high policy-making position."

Perhaps this means he'll be offered a job as roving ambassador. If so, it's the kind of job rumored in store for him last summer, when it became clear, but perhaps not to Bowles, that his days as undersecretary were numbered.

Two things are odd about this case: the way Kennedy handled the man who was next in command to Secretary Dean Rusk at the State Department; and the way Bowles took for months what amounted to a public embarrassment.

In the first place it has never been made clear—certainly not officially clear—why Kennedy was dissatisfied with Bowles.

Last summer for several days there were news stories predicting Bowles was going to be yanked and made a roving ambassador because he didn't get along well in the State Department and was not a good administrator.

This didn't make much sense in view of the high administrative jobs Bowles had handled: as boss of OPA during the war and, after it, of the Office of Price Stabilization, and as governor of his state.

This writer has been told by a source who ought to know that Bowles did get along well at State. It's an educated guess that Bowles and Kennedy didn't get along well.

The stories predicting Bowles' downfall indicated the information critical of his performance at State came from White House people close to Kennedy.

But the anti-Bowles outburst was followed by a story—clearly pointing to its unnamed informants as men around Bowles—which said bluntly he'd get out of the Kennedy administration if he was removed as undersecretary.

The same day the pro-Bowles story appeared, Kennedy lunched with him and the White House denied Bowles was leaving.

This inspired liberal Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Pennsylvania Democrat and supporter of liberal Bowles, to announce on the Senate floor the conflict involving Bowles was "all over." It didn't seem over to a lot of people in Washington.

Then Kennedy added to the uncertainty by saying at a news conference he had never asked Bowles for his resignation, had complete confidence in him, and always expected him to serve out the life of his administration.

But—Kennedy didn't say Bowles would not be removed as undersecretary. He said, instead, that as of then he thought Bowles should stay as undersecretary, that he had no plans to ask him to take another assignment, but that he would ask Bowles if he thought he would fit in better somewhere else.

That wasn't the same as saying he was going to remain undersecretary. Then it became a matter of waiting to see what happened to Bowles for by that time—because of Kennedy's vagueness—it was apparent that Bowles was on the chute.

The Well Child

Behavior Patterns Can Signal Sight Difficulty

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness has just issued a helpful report. It's from an advisory committee whose particular assignment has been the education of partially seeing children.

By a "partially seeing" child they refer to youngsters whose corrected vision in the better eye is 20-70 or less.

The report is directed to classroom teachers. But, with conditions as they are in overcrowded schools, I thought the observations suggested for recognition of the handicapped child might well be brought to the attention of knowledgeable parents.

Here are some of the behavior patterns that may arouse your suspicions:

Attempts to brush away blur, rubs eyes excessively, frowns, shuts or covers one eye, tilts head or thrusts it forward at near or distant objects.

Has difficulty in reading or in other work requiring close use of eyes.

Blinks more than usual, cries often, or is irritable when required to do close work.

Stumbles or trips over small objects.

Holds books or small objects close to eyes.

Is unable to participate in games requiring distance vision.

Is unduly sensitive to light.

Has red-rimmed, encrusted or swollen eyelids, recurring sties, inflamed or watery eyes or crossed eyes.

Complains of not being able to see well, of experiencing nausea, dizziness or headaches after close eye work, of having blurred or double vision.

The first thing to do if you notice these behavior patterns is to have the youngster's eyes tested by a qualified specialist. You will receive instructions as to further procedure.

But for your guidance the committee calls attention to several of the "myths" regarding the visual apparatus.

Such myths, for example, as the mistaken idea that use of the eyes is harmful, that the eyes can be "strained," that glasses are a "cure-all," that glasses are harmful and should be discarded irrespective of the nature of the condition for which they were prescribed, that the nearsighted child should have its recreational activities restricted, that all partially seeing children necessarily require the largest available type, that the child with one eye must be careful not to put it to unusual strain, that the partially seeing child needs more planned rest periods than do the other children and that visual impairment will lead to development of a "sixth sense."

While it is probably true that only one child in 500 is afflicted with partial vision, early recognition and prompt attention to the visual defect of that single youngster may be sufficiently rewarding to warrant examination of the other 499.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

SCHOOL LAWS BEING REVISED

The first word-by-word, line-by-line revision of school laws in the state's history is underway.

Edward D. Summers, revisor of statutes, says aim of the revision is to eliminate conflicts, duplications and obsolete material.

Summers says Missouri school laws have grown like Topsy for more than a century and there have been but two previous efforts to get them in order. The first effort was in 1889 and the second in 1909. But Summers says both were more compilations than they were revisions.

He describes the present revision effort as a "real overhauling."

It is hoped to have revision bills ready for the 72nd General Assembly which meets in 1963.

The revision is being directed by a special between - sessions House-Senate education committee headed by Sen. William B. Waters, of Liberty, with the Revisor supplying the professional force.

Working with the committee and the Revisor are special committees of the Missouri Bar Association, the Missouri State Teachers Association and the state Department of Education.

The Missouri Bar Committee, appointed by Bar President Jackson Wright, of Mexico, is composed of Erwin Tzibberg, St. Louis; Frank Mann, Springfield; Rufus Burrus, Independence; Robert B. Fizzell, Kansas City, Mo.; and Dan Chapman, Chillicothe. All well versed in school activities.

The Missouri State Teachers Association Committee is made up of Everett Keith, executive secretary; Marvin Schamberger, director of research; and Dr. Inks Franklin, editor of School and Community, the MSTA magazine.

From the state Department of Education is George B. John as a representative of Commissioner of Education Hubert Wheeler.

Summers says it is tentatively arranged that all meet for the first time on Dec. 15 in Jefferson City.

IMMUNIZATION LAW BRINGS COMPLAINTS

Some parents are complaining about a new state law requiring that school children be immunized against polio, smallpox and diphtheria.

The complaints are going largely to state senators and representatives and are coming from parents who do not want their children immunized and others who claim they cannot afford costs of immunization.

The new law itself answers both complaints.

It provides that a child may be exempted from immunization if a parent or guardian objects in writing to the school administrator. State Division of Health rules and regulations further provide that a child may be exempted upon certification by a physician that such immunization would seriously endanger the child's health or life.

Further, the law provides that if a parent or guardian is unable to pay, the child shall be immunized at public expense in a manner to be determined by the Division of Health after consultation with the school superintendent.

Dr. H. M. Hardwicke, director of the state Division of Health, says the new law applies to a minority of the state's children since most parents have their children immunized prior to entering them in school. Dr. Hardwicke urges all parents not to wait until their child is of school age before having them immunized since the diseases quite often strike children at pre-school ages.

NEW STATE LAWS ARE PUBLISHED

The work of the 71st General Assembly now is in book form.

It took nearly 500 pages to get it all down.

The book is a cumulative supplement to the recently published Missouri Revised Statutes, 1959.

Also included is one work of the 70th General Assembly. It is the law whereby the legislators' salaries were raised to $4,800 a year, among other things.

A total of 5,000 copies of the supplement were published at a cost of $1,508.77. They are available from the Secretary of State for $3.50 each.

The remaining records of the 71st General Assembly which include journals of the House and Senate and the laws in bill form will be published next March.

Guest Editorial

CHARLESTON (W. Va.) DAILY MAIL: He Can't Have Both. — Perhaps the best reason for thinking that there isn't going to be a war is that Khrushchev's plans do not allow for it. Instead, in hour after hour of orating to the restless sheep, he has set his eyes upon 1960 and what life will be like on that fixed date.

There will be grain in the granary, choice cuts in the freezer, an apartment in Moscow, a place in the country for everyone and plenty of culture. The United States will be second in everything and reduced to living on such scraps as may drop from the groaning Communist table.

It is a pleasant dream with something about it of the late, late show. One can't remember when, but one is reasonably certain that he has seen it before — probably in 1922. And who can blame the Russian people for dreaming it or decline thereby to wish them well? It would be no lasting disadvantage to us if they prospered mightily.

But there is one hitch. Even a small war would wreck this dream, and a major war would wreck it. Khrushchev cannot have it both ways — a productive peace and a destructive war.

Conclusion: He will try, as he always has, to get what he wants by every means short of direct, frontal attack.

Matter of Fact

How did such an expression as "blackballed" originate? It comes from the time when black and white balls were actually used as tokens for voting. When someone was up for membership in a club, white and black balls were used to represent votes for or against. Enough black balls and the individual was not admitted.

Winter Care of Fall Pigs

Nutrition Is Key To Management

By MELVIN BRADLEY
MU Extension Animal
Husbandry Specialist

One of the many problems that winter brings to the livestock producer is caring for fall pigs. Management practices for spring pigs may be inadequate for fall pigs. Most of the problems, however, can be controlled by proper nutrition, housing, and disease prevention.

Since grass and green feeds are limited during winter months, nutrition is of major importance. The level of energy in a ration is still very important, but, fortunately, our farm grains meet this requirement in adequate amounts. On the other hand, protein is almost always expensive and many times not available in adequate amounts to fall pigs. The result of a protein-deficient diet for growing pigs may not appear visibly, but the effect is that pigs simply do not grow well, if at all. Protein from soybean meal is cheap, abundant, and adequate when supplemented with the B vitamins. Vitamins A and D are also likely to be deficient in winter rations. Yellow corn may supply all of the vitamin A necessary for adult hogs, but it is not adequate for growing pigs. And, if corn has undergone storage, it has likely lost some of its vitamin A content.

Commercial sources of these vitamins offer them at reasonable cost. Another good source of vitamins in the fall and spring is rye or a similar small grain pasture when available and convenient.

Then, there's the problem of supplying enough clean water at the right temperature. Feed intake of fattening pigs in dry lot can be increased with some method that keeps water before the pigs at all times, particularly if water temperature is 50 degrees or higher.

Inadequate housing or no housing at all in cold weather can cost the producer as much as one-half pound of feed per day over normal feed intake, simply to keep the body of the pig warm. This is especially true if pigs are not on a full feed, or if they are not thrifty. Major requirements of a good house are that it keep animals dry, free from drafts, and yet supplied with some ventilation. The sleeping area needs to contain six square-feet per pig, and may be bedded in a number of different ways. Perhaps straw is still the most popular and the most available form of bedding, with ground corn cobs second.

Disease control is largely a problem of prevention with winter pigs. If they are well-fed and adequately housed, the problem of disease is greatly reduced. Flu and scours are the two diseases that cause more trouble than most others. If these appear, clean up the premises, isolate the affected animals, and in many cases it may be advisable to increase the level of antibiotics in the ration.

Anytime the pig is uncomfortable he is not performing at maximum efficiency, and is costing the producer money.

Farm Tax Institutes Set for December

A series of 14 Farm Tax Institutes has been scheduled for early December throughout Missouri. They are designed for consultants who help farm people with their federal and state income returns.

Dates and locations of the institutes are as follows: Dec. 4—St. Joseph, Nevada, and Columbia; Dec. 5—Rockport, Joplin, and Sikeston; Dec. 6—Bethany, Springfield, Kirksville, and Farmington; Dec. 7—Chillicothe, Cannon, and Hannibal; and Dec. 8—Sedalia.

The institutes are being arranged by the University of Missouri Extension Division, Social Security officials, and federal and state departments of revenue.

'It Costs Money'

Winterizing Your Poultry Operation

By Glenn Geiger
MU Extension Poultryman

Most of us are well aware of what happens when we fail to put antifreeze in the car radiator before the first hard freeze. The result is rather dramatic. We pay for this failure with our hard-earned dollars, to say nothing of the time we spend and inconvenience involved in correcting the situation.

Less dramatic perhaps is the result of failure to get our storm windows in place before winter weather arrives. But in both cases the result is similar — it costs us money.

Poultrymen suffer the same kind of losses when they fail to give the flock winter protection. By this time of year the poultry house should have been carefully checked to be certain birds will not be subject to cold drafts. Be sure the north sides and ends of the laying house can be closed tightly to eliminate chilling drafts. This does not mean the house should be completely closed. Winter time ventilation is very important. Enough air must circulate to remove the large amounts of moisture given off by chickens.

So give some thought to the ventilation system. One of the big winter problems is keeping the poultry litter dry. A damp environment causes all sorts of grief. When using natural ventilation provide some openings on the south side of the buildings. Close only to prevent driving snow or rain from entering the building.

A good ventilation system provides fresh air, removes stale air and moisture, and keeps litter dry. If fans are being used, now is a good time to clean and service them. Check carefully to see that they are performing as they should. In fact, the whole electrical service should be inspected and repairs made. The lighting system should be adjusted to compensate for decreasing daylight and all light fixtures thoroughly cleaned.

While we're talking about electrical devices let's say a word about heating tapes. If you use them to prevent water from freezing, get tapes installed before they are in good working order. If they are old and worn you'd better replace them. A defective heating tape won't do the job and can, if shorting out, act like an electric fence. In other words, the birds may get a shock when trying to drink. They soon learn to avoid the waterers as much as possible. This can, and has resulted in serious drops in production.

Take steps now to control rats and mice all around the poultry buildings. Too many of us don't realize how destructive and dangerous these creatures are. Too many of us seem content to tolerate them. When cold weather arrives they really move in. Once they make themselves at home they set to work stealing and contaminating feed and grain, spreading diseases, killing chicks, gnawing holes in most anything and they have been known to start electrical fires. A good rodent control program should be part of every poultry operation.

Our failure to prepare for winter most always contributes to low income and economic loss. So don't put it off any longer — winterize your poultry operation now.

Farm Managers To Meet Dec. 7 At University

Federal programs, long time leases, and the University of Missouri's farm record analysis service will be among the topics discussed at the annual Farm Management and Land Appraisal Short Course, Dec. 7 and 8, in Columbia.

Other major topics will include equitable farm leases, financing state government, and new developments in insect and weed control, and in bull testing. A guest speaker will be L. H. Seminar on Hog Diseases

Our program is complete for the Swine Disease Seminar to be held in the Pacific Cafe, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 28. Doctor Venton Goodnight and Doctor Charles W. Monsees will be on the morning program and Doctor R. E. Gouge and Doctor Robert Linsendhardt will be on in the afternoon. One of the morning topics will be "S.P.F. pigs" and I expect that some colored slides or movies will be used to tell something about it. The other morning topic will be "Swine Flu and Pneumonia." We expect to use a question box and will give those attending an opportunity to write out questions that can be answered by the veterinarians after they have given their reports.

Any time left after the two topics have been discussed and questions answered can be used for discussing other diseases. Questions that might be answered in the afternoon discussion that may come up in the morning will be held until the afternoon.

The afternoon topics will include "Sanitation, Necro and Rhinitis" to be discussed by Dr. Gouge and "Scours and T.G.E." to be discussed by Dr. Linsendhardt.

We have a tentative understanding with the proprietor of the cafe that folks meeting there will eat their dinner there. Consequently it will help our planning as well as save interruptions if those planning to attend try to get there on time.

Need to Return Brucellosis Sheets

Local, state and federal veterinarians are attempting to get Pettis County recertified as a modified brucellosis-free county. The first three-year period runs out Dec. 31.

As I understand it, information sheets or questionnaires were sent out sometime ago to owners of herds for retesting. The latest report is that there are 50 cattle owners to whom these information sheets were mailed that have not returned them.

As I recall these sheets asked when it would be most convenient for you to have the veterinarian to come by and some other similar questions. If you have one of those questionnaires tucked back some place, won't you get it out, complete it and mail it to the proper post office.

Kalo Monsees of Smithton, who is representing the State Veterinarian's office on this program will, I am sure, sincerely appreciate anything that can be done to hurry up the testing program.

As I understand it, counties are certified for three-year periods.

A.S.C. Notes

Sam Hieronymus, Pettis County A.S.C. chairman, stopped in the office Monday to talk to me about a couple of things. The first was that the 1961 feed-grain program regulations had been amended to authorize turning the livestock on designated diverted acres on and after this date.

We have two problems on the wheat program, Sam said. The first, he said, was that many folks did not realize that they had to lay out some conserving acres to draw wheat payment besides staying within their allotment. For example a man with a 30-acre allotment had actually made a reduction of about three acres. However, that three acres must be in a conserving crop before he can draw pay for the reduction.

The other problem, Sam said, was that they must check on these diverted acres at the time they measure the wheat. They had originally understood that these acres would not have to be designated until the first of the year. In addition after the acres are designated they cannot be changed to another part of the farm but will have to stay on that particular area.

New Sheep Scabies Law

A number of sheep owners are concerned about House Bill No. 522 which was passed by the last general assembly for the control of sheep scabies. Some indication is that the law will be enforced as of Dec. 1.

The general provision of the law is that all breeding and feeding sheep and goats offered for sale, barter or exchange at any market or any dealers premises, or otherwise moved or released from any market or dealers premises, within 10 days of such sale, barter, exchange, release or movement, be dipped in an approved approved licensed veterinarian or an employee of the Missouri Department of Agriculture or of the Animal Disease Eradication Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

There was some sort of a stigma dip under the supervision of an approved licensed veterinarian or an employee of the Missouri Department of Agriculture or of the Animal Disease Eradication Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

partment of Agriculture or of the Animal Disease Eradication Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

There are a number of questions involved. If you plan to move any sheep through a market except going directly to slaughter, you should probably check with your veterinarian or the market folks.

Holstein Meeting

Robert Longan, local Holstein owner, has asked me to assist him in publicizing the district Holstein meeting which will be at Flat Creek Inn Wednesday, Nov. 29. The program starts at 10:30 and will be over by 4 o'clock.

Besides regular business which includes election of officers, setting the 1962 show, etc., John Cooper, formerly of Adams Dairy and now back with them, will be the speaker. In between times he has been located with the Holstein Friesian Association back at Brattleboro, Vermont.

Pure Milk Dinner

Meeting at Cole Camp

Our district of the Pure Milk Producers Association is holding two dinner meetings this week with the closest one at Cole Camp Wednesday night, Nov. 29. It is scheduled at 7:30 at St. Peter and Paul's Church.

Members and families planning to attend are urged to get their cards back immediately.

Raising Dairy Calves

I was out to Tommy Klein's Tuesday taking some pictures of the calf pens that he has built into his old loafing barn.

We have recently received a few copies of a new USDA bulletin No. 2176 entitled Raising Dairy Calves and Heifers. It does have a lot of good information and we'll be happy to hand or mail you a copy.

Keeping a Record Book?

Do you know how much credit you'll need in the coming months? Have you budgeted ahead to determine when you will be able to pay off loans you are planning to obtain?

A farm representative of a local bank sat in at one of our Extension planning meetings the other evening. He told of a farmer coming to the bank who had everything planned out as to how much money he needed, for what he was going to use it, and when he would be able to repay it. The banker expressed the thought that he wished more farm folks desiring credit would have their plans as well worked out.

Old timers used to feel that there was some sort of a stigma to borrowing money. However most farmers today realize that sufficient credit is just as important as adequate equipment, livestock, etc.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Mon., Nov. 27, 1961 5

tant as adequate equipment, livestock, etc.

However, successful use of borrowed money requires sound farm business planning. This means keeping a good set of records to help in figuring the costs and returns for each phase of your farming operation.

You should concentrate on developing strong enterprises and eliminating the weak ones. Lenders are more inclined to provide financing when they have confidence in management.

By mapping your credit needs and having some detailed records available you'll be in a much stronger position to talk business with your lending agent.

Each year we are selling less farm record books and fillers. I hope that means that you are finding good record books somewhere else. It could mean that we are keeping less records instead of more and better ones.

1474 Soil Tests

We have just completed tabulation of our soil tests through our soil testing laboratory for the last 12 months. The total is 1474 for 894 different people in this past year. This compares quite closely to 1484 tested a year ago for 886 people.

There were 84,000 samples tested in the state in 1960. The top number for a county lab was 2,048 while the low was slightly over 300.

While you have some slack time you could be planning which fields needed to be tested this winter. Some of them may be solid enough to sample now or you could tell your fertilizer company representative which fields you wanted him to sample.

Each of the new soil test forms has blanks on the back to keep a five-year history of each field. Every time we ask a farmer for past history on a field we find how easy it has been for him to forget.

If you would put the soil test sheets in a three ring notebook, and they are punched for that purpose, you could bring field history up to date each time you make a plant food application to that field. Of course there is also space to indicate crop yields there.

If you are interested in setting up an inventory book of all your fields this winter, we could even give you some blank sheets to put in such a notebook if you will ask us.

Buff's End Perfect Season, Tigers Out of Bowl Picture

By SKIPPER PATRICK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Colorado's Orange Bowl bound Buffaloes completed a perfect Big Eight Conference season Saturday by swamping Iowa State 34-0 and Missouri pulled an upset in beating Kansas 10-7 in that tricky, well-seasoned rivalry.

Orange Bowl officials, who a week earlier indicated they would like to have Kansas as host team against Louisiana State in the New Year Day attraction, wasted little time inviting Colorado after their seventh straight league game.

Bill Harris, a 206-pound sophomore halfback who didn't play a second until the fourth game of the season, shelled off touchdown runs of 87, 59 and 3 yards as the Buffaloes ran up a 28-0 third quarter lead then let its rinky-dink play the final quarter.

Coach Sonny Grandelius described it as "Colorado's best game of the year."

Jerry Hillebrand, huge senior end who is making a strong bid for All America honors, guard Ralph Heck and fullback Loren Schweninger threw the key blocks on all three Harris touchdowns.

The Buffaloes, with one game to go—against the Air Force at Boulder Saturday—are 8-1 for the season, only an upset loss to Utah blemishing their record.

The Missouri Tigers gave Colorado an Orange Bowl push by soundly whipping Kansas before 40,500 in Lawrence, Kan.

Two quick hitting Missouri lines led by tackle Ed Blaine, guard Paul Garvis and rookie ends George Seals and John Sevik shut out Kansas' great backfield twosome of quarterback John Hadl and halfback Curtis McClintock and had the Jayhawks under control after the first quarter.

Halfback Bill Tobin, whose touchdown beat Minnesota 6-0 in the second game of the season, scored all the Tiger points with a 27-yard field goal, a 3-yard sprint on a pitchout for a fourth quarter touchdown and a conversion.

The Tigers' ailing quarterback, Ron Taylor, who played less than half the game, and sophomore backs Paul Underhill and Vince Turner also played key roles in the Tigers' victory.

Missouri Athletic Director Don Faurot took Missouri out of consideration for a third straight bowl appearance with the announcement Sunday that the University's athletic administration felt the athletes should get back to the text books.

Kansas, still in the running for a bowl bid, scored its touchdown when sophomore fullback Ken Coleman crammed through the middle from the one-foot mark after the Jayhawks recovered a Missouri fumble on the 15 early in the first half. Wallace Barnes, a tackle, kicked the point.

The Tigers lost a scoring opportunity early in the second when Sevik dropped quarterback Jim Johnson's peg in the end zone.

Kansas lost a scoring chance when Hadl's pitchout was fumbled and Sevik recovered on the Missouri 20 in the second. The Jayhawks had a chance to pull it out when Underhill fumbled and end Larry Allen recovered on the Missouri 25 with a little more than two minutes remaining. The Tigers held on downs at their 16 and Taylor ran out the clock.

Missouri, which drove 80 yards to its touchdown, lost another good chance late in the fourth when Taylor's pitchout was fumbled and Kansas Center Kent Staab recovered on the Jayhawk eight.

In other games Oklahoma's Sooners got tough in the second half to wipe out a 14-0 Nebraska lead and win 21-14, and Oklahoma State got into high gear to wallop Kansas State 45-0.

Missouri and Kansas finished in a tie for second in the league standings with 5-2 records.

Oklahoma and Oklahoma State have a game remaining at Norman Saturday.

BIG EIGHT LITTLE BITS: Said Ron Taylor: "Hadl is a great player, we know that, but he didn't hurt us at all in three games. McClintock is a terrific player, we are grateful that he didn't play against us on defense. That big, quick guy can hurt you plenty." Injured halfback Norm Beal, who made brief appearances in the game, contended: "Our line is the best in the league from end to end..." The victory gave Missouri its biggest lead, two games counting Kansas' forfeit of a 23-7 victory last season, in the long series dating back to 1891...

Colorado players, polled by sports editor Bob Hurt of the Topeka Capital last week, picked Kansas to win Saturday. Fourteen Buffaloes picked Kansas. Only two picked Missouri...

year ago the Buffs were 15-0 in favor of Missouri. Kansas won decisively.

Coleman was the game's leading rusher, 81 yards in 11 rushes including a sparkling 50-yarder...

Hadl, because of losses on pass plays had a minus 12 yards rushing on 10 plays... he completed 2 of 8 passes for 28 yards. Underhill picked up 78 yards on 17 carries. Taylor, who carried the ball 10 times for only 18 yards, hit 3-of-3 passes for 46 yards... both Missouri's Daryl Krugman and Hadl punted well. Krugman averaged 48.8 yards on 4 kicks. Hadl averaged 38.8 on 5.

It was a big day for Gene Oliver, Missouri sophomore from Overland Park, Kan. A center, Oliver had never played end until last Monday when he was shifted to that position to aid Sevik who was filling in for injured Don Wainwright. Oliver played well on defense and caught a 16-yard pass from Taylor in the Tigers' touchdown march.

Oilers Get Chargers On Home Lot

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Houston's point-made Oilers get the San Diego Chargers on the home lot this week and it's the big game in more ways than one for Wally Lemm's hard-bitten crew.

Houston can kill two birds with one George Blanda — just about sew up the Eastern Division championship of the American Football League and show that San Diego is human after all. By so doing the Oilers could become favorites to repeat as champion, too.

San Diego hasn't yet lost a game and already is Western Division king. Things have come pretty easy for the Chargers. Houston, on the other hand, had to dig out of a terrifying early season slump. If a team profits more from mistakes, the Oilers ought to be just about perfect.

The thing that haunts the Oilers, however, is what happened last Sept. 23. That was the day San Diego beat Houston 34-24. It gave Houston an inferiority complex that wasn't wiped out until it had another coach.

Houston has only three games to go and the first is San Diego. If it wins this one it can expect to cop the Eastern Division title and clash with San Diego in the league playoff. Only New York and Oakland remain and Houston should have no worries about those outfits.

Houston walloped Denver 45-14 Sunday and showed San Diego that, while it holds the AFL record for pass-interceptions with 43, it has no corner on this statistic.

Houston gobbled up six Denver passes Sunday and, like San Diego goes, turned some of them into scores.

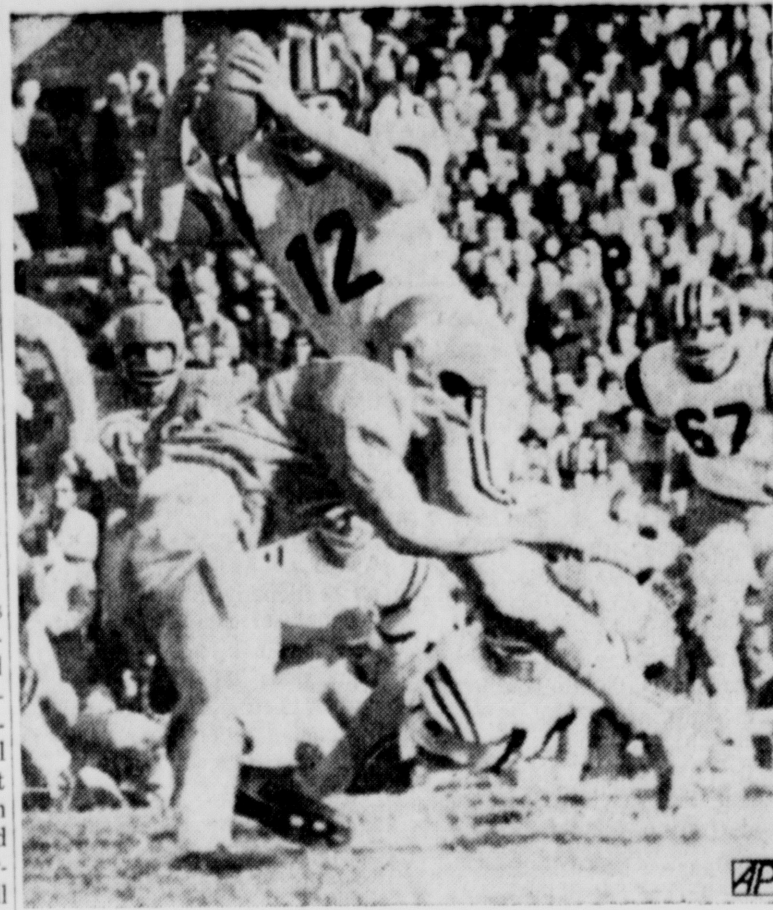

Blanda was in his usual fine fettle, passing for a touchdown, kicking a field goal and booting six extra points. He also engineered long drives for touchdowns.

Dallas and Oakland played a meaningless game Sunday but it was the occasion for Abner Haynes, the versatile Dallas halfback, to put on his biggest show.

Lt'l Abner scored five touchdowns and rushed for 158 yards. He set one-game league records for touchdowns, points, rushing and making the most touchdowns by rushing, four. Haynes bettered the 26-point day Blanda had last year.

Incidentally, Dallas beat Oakland 43-11 and the Raiders got tired of two things: seeing the points go up on the scoreboard and watching Haynes flee across the goal line.

New York beat Buffalo 21-14 earlier in the week to hang mildly in the race for the Eastern Division championship. New York is 1½ games back of Houston. Boston is in second place, a game behind. The Patriots didn't play last week.

HOLDING IT HIGH—Ron Taylor (12), Missouri quarterback, holds the ball high looking for a teammate to lateral to as he's tackled by Kansas' Con Keating (14) in their Big Eight game in Lawrence. Taylor made 4 yards in the second period action. Missouri won the game 10-7. (AP Wirephoto)

Battle for Postseason Bowls Into Committee Conferences

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The battle for the postseason bowl spots comes off the gridiron and into eight committee conference rooms at as many sites today, with Alabama's final bid for a flock of honors and the annual war between Army and Navy this weekend temporarily sidetracked.

Only the Orange Bowl committee has finished its work, having Colorado and Louisiana State set for its Jan. 1, 1962 extravaganza.

Now it remains for the Rose Bowl committee to tap Ohio State as an opponent for UCLA in the Rose Bowl; for the Cotton Bowl committee to select Mississippi to face Texas, and for the Sugar Bowl committee to sweat out 'Bama's game against Auburn before inviting it to play Southwest Conference co-champ Arkansas in New Orleans.

These three are pretty well decided on pairings, with 'Bama Coach Bear Bryant, having decided on the Sugar Bowl if picked, still trying to get a perfect 10-0 season, plus a share of the Southeastern Conference title with LSU and most likely the top spot in the final Associated Press poll the following week, bringing with it the national championship.

Georgia Tech is already in the 'Gator Bowl, but the committee must pick between Miami (Fla.) a Friday night winner over Northwestern, and Penn State, which beat Pitt 47-26. The Hurricanes wind up against Florida this week and may get the nod, having beaten Penn State 25-8 earlier in the season.

With Missouri having eliminated itself for many bowl games even after a 10-7 win over Kansas' Jayhawks and with Syracuse already in the Liberty Bowl, there remains a pool of bowl eligibles that must fill both spots in the Bluebonnet, Gotham and National Trophy bowls, and the other spot in Philadelphia's Dec. 16 Liberty affair.

These include: Auburn, Kansas, Utah State, Wyoming, Rice, Duke and Maryland, in addition to Penn State and Miami.

Kansas has a blanket invitation to the Gotham, Dec. 9 in New York, and is also a Liberty favorite, along with Duke, Auburn has been given the nod by Washington's Dec. 30 National Trophy affair. Neither has accepted.

Ohio State jumped to the head of the Rose Bowl line with a crushing 50-20 victory over Michigan which wrapped up the Big Ten title as Minnesota lost to Wisconsin 23-21. UCLA won the Big Five title and the host spot with a 10-7 victory over Southern California.

Arkansas' 28-0 victory over Texas Tech tied it with Texas for the SWC crown and sent the Razorbacks into the Sugar Bowl.

'Bama was idle while Auburn beat Florida 32-15.

Texas nailed down the Cotton Bowl and co-SWC title on Thanksgiving Day. Ole Miss will probably give its answer to a bid after its game this week against Mississippi State. The Rebels also had last weekend off.

Colorado nailed down the Big Eight title with a 35-0 victory over Iowa State, in addition to its Orange Bowl trip. Virginia's 28-16 upset of Maryland killed the Terps' chances for the Gator Bowl.

Elsewhere, Rutgers finished its first perfect season with a 32-19 victory over Columbia, which had already nailed down a share of the Ivy League crown. Harvard got the other share with a 27-0 victory over Yale.

In other top games Saturday, Michigan State kept Illinois winless this year, 34-7. Iowa romped over Notre Dame 42-21. Syracuse beat Boston College 28-13. Dartmouth knocked Princeton out of a share of the Ivy League title 24-6 and Rice beat TCU 35-16 to stay in the running for a bowl bid.

North Kansas Citians Retain Bowling Lead

The Kutis Funeral Home, St. Louis, 1960 Missouri State Women's bowling champions fell short 89 pins, in their bowling Saturday to come up to the present number one spot holders, the Dick Scharz Insurance of North Kansas City who have a total of 2895. However, a Kutis team member took over the number one position in the all-events when Marge Willson had a total of 1703 pins to overthrow Flossie Argent, also of St. Louis, who had a total of 1697.

The bowlers for Kutis turned in a three game series of 881-947-915 for a total of 2743 and with a 63 handicap had a total of 2806. In the 1960 tournament the team rolled a total of 2851 pins which has already been past by the Scharz Insurance. But Kutis took over second place in the "A" Division.

Marge Willson had a 166-222-179 in the team events for a 569, rolled 182-128-220 in the doubles for a 530 score; and in the singles had a 198-182-224 for a 604 series, and an over-all total of 1703 pins. Her score is still short of the 1960 champion, Marie Stivers of Kansas City who rolled a 1778 for the title last year.

Gradually the pace-setters move down. In the doubles event, Marcella Keane and Mary Ann Hefti, St. Louis, who set up the lead in the opening of the tournament four weeks ago with their 1227 have been gradually moved down and are now in fourth spot. Mary Weinstein and Pat Fischer, St. Louis, on the second week moved in to first place with their 1311 score, which incidentally is 15 pins higher than the 1960 champions.

This past weekend two more double teams moved into second and third positions. Alice Jean Allen and Bea Winemiller, St. Joseph, took the second place with their 1270 while Frances Perkins and Loyce Plummer, St. Louis, took the third place with their 1207.

Giants In A Stunning Win Sunday

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Yelverton Abraham Tittle, like the fabled Rumpelstiltskin, has a name that's virtually impossible to remember. But his exploits are hard to forget.

Acquired in an Aug. 15 trade that caused little stir, Tittle has been the No. 1 offensive weapon for the New York Giants in a series of stunning triumphs, the latest a 37-21 walloping of the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

Tittle, 34 with 12 years experience in the National Football League, completed 18 of 27 passes for 253 yards against the Browns and kept the Giants rolling toward the Eastern Conference title with their fourth consecutive romp and ninth victory in their last 10 games.

Under the Bald Eagle's guidance, the revitalized New York offense has accounted for an amazing 170 points in the last four games as the Giants built and maintained a one-game lead over the defending league champion Philadelphia Eagles.

The Eagles (8-3) kept pace Sunday, whipping the Dallas Cowboys 35-13 behind Sonny Jurgensen's five touchdown passes. They still have three games left, including a Dec. 10th meeting with the Giants at Philadelphia.

In the Eastern Conference, Green Bay, 17-9 winner over Detroit Thursday, holds a commanding lead over the Lions and San Francisco 49ers, tied for the runner-up spot at 6-4-1. The Packers, at 9-2, can wrap it up with one more victory. They meet the Giants at Milwaukee next.

The 49ers remained in contention by beating Minnesota 38-28. In other games, Chicago edged Los Angeles 28-24. Baltimore thumped Washington 27-6 and Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 30-27.

Despite Tittle's prolific passing, the Giants scored all their touchdowns on the ground with Y. A. rambling five yards for one in the key clash that has just about eliminated the Browns (7-4) from title contention. Bobby Galters scored twice, on runs of 1 and 11 yards. Erich Barnes got the other on a 35-yard jaunt with an interception and Pat Summerall contributed three field goals.

Milt Plum got two scores for Cleveland with 43 and 15-yard tosses to Ray Renfro. The Giants held league rushing leader Jimmy Brown to 68 yards in 20 carries before a disappointed crowd of 80,455. That throng helped push the weekend attendance total for the league to 344,466, just under the seven-game record of 353,084 set Nov. 5.

Jurgensen hit Ted Dean for a 60-yard scoring play to overcome a 3-0 Dallas lead, then connected with Pete Retzlaff on a 40-yard payoff pitch and wound up with TD strikes to Tommy McDonald on plays covering 46, 40 and 27 yards. The lone Cowboy (4-6-1) touchdown came on a 21-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron to Amos Marsh.

The Bears (6-5), with fullback Rick Casares scoring three times needed a 55-yard touchdown pass from Billy Wade to Willie Galtmore with two minutes left to win it. Zeke Bratkowski passed for three Rams (3-8) scores, including an 84-yarder to Ollie Matson. Johnny Unitas connected with Jim Mutscheller for a 10-yard touchdown flip in the first period and when Steve Myhra added the conversion the Colts (6-5) had all they needed to extend the inept Redskins (0-10-1) winless streak to 21 games.

Sub quarterback Rudy Bukich took over for Bobby Layne, engineered a 44-yard drive that spelled success for the Steelers (5-6) when Lou Michaels kicked an 18-yard field goal with 17 seconds left to beat the Cards (4-7). It was Michaels' third of the day.

Top Farm Families To Be Picked

Missouri Balanced Farming district award winners are to be selected during November, C. B. Ratchford, dean of the University of Missouri Extension Division and director of the Cooperative Extension Service, has announced.

The homes of Missouri farm families nominated to receive the Balanced Farming awards will be visited by Extension Service judging teams made up of home management and farm management specialists.

In the western half of Missouri, six district winners will be selected from 24 counties that have nominated families to receive the award. Seven district winners in eastern Missouri will be picked from a total of 25 counties making nominations.

Names of the Balanced Farming district award winners will be announced shortly after the first of the year.

According to Ratchford, Balanced Farming is one of the major programs of the Missouri Cooperative Extension Service. In the program, both state and county extension staff members work with farm families to help them apply business principles to their farming operations.

First Player Trade Made In Baseball

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An exchange of shortstops between Boston, is holding up the deal. Buhl a regular starter for the Braves since 1953, had a 9-10 record in 1961 but his lifetime mark is 109 victories and 71 defeats. Elston, a rubber-armed right-hander, appeared in 58 games for the Cubs last season, won 6 and lost 7 and posted a 4.12 earned run average.

Based on their records, there isn't much to choose between Buddin and Bressoud. Both came up to the majors in 1956 and both have a lifetime batting average of under .250. Buddin has spent all his time in the big leagues with the Red Sox. Bressoud put in his six years with the New York and San Francisco Giants.

Bressoud was Houston's first pick in the special National League draft held last month to stock the two new clubs, the Colts and the New York Mets. The Colts paid $75,000 for the 29-year-old Californian.

Sunday's legislative spotlight was centered on the rules committee which rejected a proposal to legalize the spitball. The vote of the nine-man committee was eight against the spitball's return and one for it. The lone favorable vote was coast by Cal Hubbard, supervisor of the American League umpires. Hubbard was acting on behalf of league President Joe Cronin, who sponsored the proposal. Cronin was supported by Commissioner Ford Frick.

The deal, although not of great magnitude, and the rejection of the spitball stole the advance spotlight from the major league draft starting at 11 a.m. (EST). Washington, which finished in a ninth-place tie with Kansas City in the expanded American League last season, was expected to take shortstop Ken Hamlin from Toronto as its first pick. The standard draft price is $25,000.

The Red Sox-Colts swap was expected to spur further trades brewing since the three-week inter-league trading period began Nov. 21. The only other inter-league deal made so far was Washington's sale of shortstop Coot Veal to Pittsburgh last Tuesday.

A transaction which may be consummated before the major league moguls leave for Miami Thursday to hold their own conclave involves Milwaukee and the Chicago Cubs. The trade would send Bob Buhl, 33-year-old Braves right-hander, to the Cubs for relief pitcher Don Elston and infielder Jerry Kindall.

Hesitancy to part with Kindall, a 26-year old shortstop-second baseman who batted .242 and hit

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday my wife and I hurriedly dressed for church. We got to the door, I took a quick look and said: "Good grief, Margaret, you forgot your skirt!" She replied in anger, "You idiot, this is my new outfit!"

I couldn't believe it. The dress hit her above the knees. I could have sworn it was the top of a tunic or something.

Margaret is a fairly attractive woman but she had put on some weight in the 22 years we've been married. Also, she's a little bow-legged. These short skirts don't do a thing for her.

When I expressed myself she blew up. She claims the smart dressers follow style trends set by the fashion designers and that those who refuse look like country bumpkins. Are the women flipping their lids, or am I crazy? I think these short skirts are hideous.—PLAIN ME.

Dear You: Any woman who has eyes and a full-length mirror knows better than the fashion designers what her legs look like. Fillies who are richly endowed with well-shaped gams can afford to hike the hemline a little. But the average matron who is slightly knock-kneed, pigeon-toed, or bowlegged is foolish to go in for extreme styles.

Dear Ann: Our son married a trashy foreigner he met when he went to another city to work. Rodney is sixth generation American, and a Princeton graduate. So you can see how this hurt us.

The wedding was so old-country that I was happy it was 2,000 miles away so none of our friends could see it. The bride's parents look and talk like the came over on the last boat.

Now Rodney and his wife live only 100 miles from us and we never hear from them. They've been married two years and we have been invited to their home for dinner only once. Months go by and I don't even get a phone call. How can a boy treat his parents this way? Can this girl have alienated him so completely?—DISCARDED FOLKS.

Dear Folks: Your lack of enthusiasm for your daughter-in-law undoubtedly has something to do with the deafening silence. If you have such a low opinion of the girl she must know it — and so does your son. She did not alienate him, my dear; your attitude did it.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are both 24. We've been married two years and are very happy. His aunt who raised him never cared for me and she is awfully domineering.

I'm expecting a baby in a few months and my condition is obvious. My husband's aunt phoned him this evening to say she caught a glimpse of me in the market today and I looked "disgraceful." She offered to do all my shopping until after the baby is born so I can "stay out of sight — at home — where I belong."

I was so hurt I cried. My husband says he doesn't know about such things, so I'm writing to you, in the hope that you can explain. Please try.—M. S.

Dear M. S.: Expectant mothers no longer hide in the attic until the stork rescues them. Your husband's aunt is living in another century.

Tell him you intend to do your own shopping and remain as active as possible until the baby is born. You'll feel better physically and your mental outlook will be more cheerful.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Round the Clock Schedule Tested For Laying Hens

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australian scientists are keeping 200 hens in artificial perpetual daylight to try to make them lay more eggs.

The hens live in an electrically lit, temperature-controlled room at Werribee, Victoria, and listen to continuous radio broadcasts. Dr. P. J. Claringbold of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization, said a normal hen lays about once every 30 hours and doesn't lay in the dark. Eventually the 30-hour cycle ends at night, and the hen stops laying for a period.

The experiment, said Dr. Claringbold, is to shorten the 30 hours and to breed chickens from birds with the shortest egg-laying cycles.

Why the continuous radio? That, says Dr. Claringbold, is to insure the sound level is always the same to further confuse the birds if they try to distinguish night from day.

Secretary Aids Diplomats Who Meet Difficulty

LONDON (AP)—The British Foreign Office has taken a hand to help African and other diplomats who run up against the color bar or encounter other difficulties in London.

Brunette Miss Diana Makgill, experienced as a social secretary, has been appointed to the protocol department as a fixer. Finding living accommodations for colored diplomats immediately became one of her chief problems.

"She has been very successful," a Foreign Office official said. "The social secretary approach, and perhaps the feminine touch, seem to work very well."

"Finding accommodation for colored envoys is only one of Miss Makgill's functions," the spokesman said. "Many representatives of new nations, by no means all colored, have troubles settling in."

Miss Makgill helps with advice about schools, offices, shops, and social usage. She was formerly social secretary to Lady Selkirk.

Overflowing River Cuts Off About 2,000

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP)—The overflowing Congo River has isolated about 2,000 persons in the Mossaka region in the north part of this former French colony, the government announced Sunday. Some have been trapped on high ground for as long as five days. Tens of thousands of acres of land were reported flooded.

Fire Tear Gas, Shots To Control Mob Riot

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Police fired tear gas and warning shots Sunday to quell rioting in Bulawayo African townships following a nationalist political meeting. Native demonstrators stoned officers, police vehicles and beer halls. A police spokesman said one demonstrator was wounded and about 12 were arrested.

New Officers Named

Robert Hyatt was elected president of the Beaman Arator 4-H Club at the meeting Nov. 22. Other officers elected were John Sneed, vice-president; Dorothy Armstrong, secretary; John Porter, treasurer; Joyce Simmons, reporter; Ronnie Phillips, song leader; Philip Embree, game leader; Frances Taylor, Council representative; J. Sneed, community leader; H. H. Nutt, assistant community leader; and Charles Taylor, parliamentarian.

Prime Ministers Express Concern On Atomic Tests

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Prime Ministers Hayato Ieda of Japan and U Nu of Burma expressed deep concern Sunday over continued nuclear testing. They said it could lead to "total annihilation of mankind."

In a joint communique released following Ikeda's three-day goodwill visit, both leaders said they "strongly appeal for immediate suspension of all nuclear weapons tests and for early conclusion of an agreement on prohibition of nuclear weapons tests, under effective inspection and control."
